NEAR SERIOUS ACCIDENT IS CAUSED BY SPREADING RAILS

Nearly Whole Train Is Overturned, But Fortunately No One Is Killed and Only Three Persons Injured--Was Southern Pacific Crack Flyer

[By United Press]
WATSONVILLE, Cal., Oct. 14.—Three are known to be injured as the result of the derailment of the north-bound Lark, the crack Southern Pacific passenger, this morning between Aromas and Logan. Spreading rails caused the engine, tender, baggage, express, diners and several sleepers to leave the rails. All but the sleepers turned on their sides. Mrs. Alice Fallaglia of San Francisco sustained broken ribs, and an unidentified elderly woman was badly bruised. Mail Clerk Hopper was bruised. A wrecking train was rushed from Aromas to get the cars back on the tracks. The passengers were taken to San Francisco by special train.

HUGHES' SPECIAL AT PORTLAND IS GREETED BY WILSON CHEERS

[By United Press]
PORTLAND, Oct. 14.—The Women's Hughes' special arrived today. A big crowd of Wilson women met the train and their cries of "Wilson" drowned the Republicans' cheers for Hughes. The Wilsonians outnumbered the Republicans. They flanked the Hughes' procession, cheering for Wilson and deriding the Republicans and Hughes. The visitors did not answer their jibes. Anticipating other demonstrations the visitors asked that bodyguards accompany their speakers to factories and shops.

NAVAL OFFICERS TAKE STING FROM REPUBLICANS' CHARGES

Admiral H. T. Mayo's own story of the so-called "Tampico incident," regarding which it has been charged by Republicans that American citizens were deserted in Mexico and their property destroyed, was made public Monday through the Democratic National committee in the form of an interview with Admiral Mayo by George Creel, a writer. Mr. Creel also interviewed Admiral Fletcher on what happened at Vera Cruz. Admiral Mayo was in command of the American naval forces at Tampico, and the entire "incident" centered around him.

"It is misrepresentation," he said, "to say that American citizens in Tampico were deserted in an hour of imminent danger. It is distorting facts to say that Americans, robbed of the protection of their own flag, were forced to seek refuge under the colors of a foreign power. It is not true that the Tampico affair was marked by gross bungling. The fact that close to 3,000 Americans were taken out of the city without loss of life or destruction of property, is a result that ought to speak for itself. I have no interest in parties or political controversies, but I have a very deep interest in the honor of the United States, the pride of the American navy. It is this honor and this pride that I am glad to defend against aspersion and misrepresentation."

The interview with Admiral Mayo was obtained on the deck of the Yankton, in Hampton Roads. Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels gave the admiral permission to talk to the interviewer as the result of widespread insistence that the "one man who knew" should be allowed to give all the facts in the case.

The admiral said in his story of the affair:

"On April 14th federal reinforcements had arrived and the whole situation had improved to such a degree that I brought all the refugees in from the battleships and landed them in Tampico again. The rebels abandoned their attack on the city and withdrew, business was resumed, and conditions appeared perfectly normal. On April 20th, in the evening, I received a wireless from Admiral Fletcher stating that Secretary Daniels had ordered me to Vera Cruz with all my ships except the Des Moines, which was to remain at Tampico."

"Then at the time Secretary Daniels issued the order on April 20th he had every reason to believe that affairs at Tampico were normal and that they had been normal since April 14th? Admiral Mayo was asked.

"That is the case, if by normal you mean what had existed for quite awhile," he replied.

"The charge has been made and is now being made repeatedly that both you and Consul Miller sent bitter protests to Secretary Daniels, and that he ignored them. Is this true?" was the next question.

"It is absolutely untrue," he said. "I have since learned that it was not until Admiral Fletcher filed his report in May that the navy department ever knew that a protest had been made. It was my judgment that I should remain at Tampico. I put this judgment up to Admiral Fletcher, my ranking officer, and he approved. Radio communication was difficult, however, and as his answer had not arrived by 7 o'clock on the morning of April 21st I arranged to start down the river."

"Just before passing out of the jetty, about 10:30 a. m., I received a wireless from Admiral Fletcher approving my recommendation and telling me to retain the Connecticut, Dolphin, Des Moines, Cyclops and Solace to look out for American and foreign lives until other provision was made; also giving me my first information that he had been ordered to seize the custom house at Vera Cruz. I sent word back that I was outside and would remain outside for further orders or developments. I was about six miles from Tampico."

"I received so many alarming re-

BIG MEETING AT LAS VEGAS

[Special to the Appeal]
LAS VEGAS, Oct. 14.—The big guns of the Democratic party, composed of Senator Key Pittman, E. E. Caine, candidate for congress; Judge Sanders, candidate for judge of the Supreme court, and William Kennett, candidate for clerk of the Supreme court, arrived in Las Vegas at 6 o'clock last evening from Goldfield and were met at the train with a brass band and over 300 people.

When the senator showed up on the platform the gathering showed their appreciation by repeated cheers for him and those with him which lasted for about three minutes. The meeting was held in the Majestic theater and the place was over flowing and when the senator drove home with telling arguments the achievements and policies of the Democratic party they were interrupted time and time again by wild cheers, and when he told with dynamic force President Wilson's attitude to the toiling masses, how he had handled the greatest money powers of the world and kept the country out of war, giving it peace and prosperity, the crowd arose to their feet and cheered him.

I do think it was the most enthusiastic meeting ever held in Las Vegas.

Trying to Secure New Trial
[By United Press]
SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—The brief in Slaughter's appeal was filed in the upper court today and will be heard in January. The brief contains eighty-three pages, contends the minister was not accorded his constitutional right to trial by a fair and impartial jury. It holds that an innocent man was convicted on the uncorroborated statement of Gertrude Lamson of Chico and that the state did not prove its case.

Marie Doro In Star Production

Marie Doro, whose motion picture debut in the Famous Players production, "The Morals of Marcus," and subsequent appearance in the same company's "The White Pearl," stamped her as one of the most winsome and altogether charming actresses on the screen, will be seen in the celebrated Sardou drama "Diplomacy," which will be the Paramount picture at the Grand tonight.

This is by no means the first time that Marie Doro has played in "Diplomacy," as she was co-star with William Gillette and Blanche Bates in the stage version of the play at the Empire theater, New York, last year—the same one which she plays in the motion picture.

Also—Burton Holmes' Famous Travels—"The Lowlands of Luzon." Coming Soon—Beeson Brothers Players Company—Trained animal show, monkeys, dogs and ponies. Also high class vaudeville, a guaranteed attraction. Watch closely for date.

Rebekahs Confer Degree On Five

Meeting Well Attended

About 200 people attended the Socialist meeting held at the Grand last evening. Mr. Mills gave an entertaining talk which was much enjoyed by all present, whether of the Socialist faith or not. His remarks were more plausible than practical and were accepted as such by the majority of those present. His statement that there was never a time in the history of the world when there were so many without work, cold, hungry and shelterless is not borne out by facts. The condition of the laboring man and woman of today compared with that of a hundred, fifty or even ten years ago shows an improvement not even dared to be hoped for by the optimistic a century ago.

Public Forum Arouses Interest

This effort of the rector has the approval of Bishop Huntington, who has signified his consent that the invited speaker should speak in Guild hall.

The speaker on this occasion will be Miss Caroline Lowe, who has already delivered an interesting address in this city. At the forum, Miss Lowe will speak on "Social Evils and Their Cure." This will be a non-partisan analysis of the social problems of our time. When the address is concluded, there will be opportunity to question the speaker, or to offer critical suggestions.

The regular evening service of the church will be held, beginning at 7:30, immediately after which the address will be delivered in Guild hall.
